Customer Reviews

One thing you might think a calendar would do is to mark the days of the month in order. In this calendar, the boxes for September go from 10 to 14. They have also helpfully included the date of September 31st. When you flip the page, the next month is also labeled as September, but in this month, the 9th and 10th occur twice. I have no idea how anyone could create and market a product with such absolutely minimal quality control. At any rate, this product is completely useless, unless you move into an alternate reality in which days occur twice or not at all.
