This book has just enough material on each page to accompany a listening selection. The student can color and read as the listens, and it can accompany another activity. The written material is appropriate for upper elementary, or middle school.

Nice for older students, I teach K-2 and the pictures are very detailed. I would have prefer just pictures of the composer. I will search on the internet to see if I can find such a thing. I might use one of two pictures from this book, but not more than that.

We love this product, we only wished that, while there aren't that many to choose from, the editors would have included at least one female composer... :)

I really like this coloring book. The illustrations are artistic and classic, it includes a good variety of composers, and the descriptions are educational and concise. Artwork is detailed, so it would be best for an older audience (say approx. 8 & up). Read my full review and see a preview of the book with lots of pictures on The Music Blog. I'm a part of a homeschool group and we study several composers every year. I got this to give the kids a corresponding colouring book. I like that the pages all have a blurb about the composer. This is a great supplement to use for younger children when you study composers.

This coloring book is a fun way to introduce children 6-10 to some of the greatest composers. The captions are brief and intended only to provide some basic biographical information on a level appropriate for children. Coloring is a great way for kids to learn and these drawings are historically accurate, high-quality and fun to color.

Nice quality coloring book on good paper. My 9 yr old grandson and music lover will love to read about the composers.

Love Dover coloring books--excellent, even for older children!
