Lucinda Geoghegan's books are treasure troves for music educators. Her three books 'Singing Games and Rhymes for Tiny Todds', 'Singing Games and Rhymes for Early Years' and 'Singing Games and Rhymes for Middle Years' are wonderful collections of repertoire and meaningful activities which teach musical skills in a playful way. These books are great for music educators but are also suitable for non specialists who are teaching music in primary school or early childhood education because the instructions are easy to follow. Books come with CDs, so even if you can't read music, you can use these resources and teach music in a student centred and creative way.
